

Diana Sette is a passionate community cultivator, climate justice activist, ecotherapist, and mother. Diana brings to Cleveland dynamic experience in social and environmental justice work, from working with the world-renowned radical political puppet troupe, Bread & Puppet Theater and numerous direct action projects focused on supporting communities, especially youth, and climate justice. In collaboration with neighbors in the Buckeye & Central neighborhoods, she co-founded Possibilitarian Garden, a community garden that has served as a resource incorporating educational workshops, art and culture events, ecological agriculture, and anti-racism activism. Currently, she serves as an appointee on the Ward 15 Tree Canopy Steering Committee, and was recently honored as an Ohio Herbal Elder by United Plant Savers, and as a Healthcare Hero by Flying Horse Farms. Most recently she has been a leading advocate for the protection of Cudell Commons Park, and organizer with the Cleveland Palestine Advocacy Community. Her writings have been published in various places including A Race Anthology: Dispatches from a Segregated City, Journal for Medicinal Plant Conservation, and Permaculture Design Magazine. She currently works as the Horticultural Therapist at University Hospitals Rainbow Babies & Children's Hospital.
