

Chicken Nugger Causing Millions to Starve

By: Billybob Joe

With the upcoming rise of autocorrect and google translate, a worldwide food staple has become obsolete. The Chicken Nugger was a food valued tremendously by an outstanding amount of people, but has been disappearing from menus worldwide replaced by the lesser chicken nugget. Without the most valued food in the alphabet, people have been going on hunger strikes. They claim that if they go prolonged amounts of time without eating any food, the Chicken Nugger will return. This has caused the death of thousands, and the Chicken Nugger is estimated to be renegotiated further for future restaurants. Our journalists are standing by, hoping for a meal of Chicken Nugger and French Fried as soon as possible.

An inspirational campaign poster

We don't have the rights to this photo

Yesterday News Suffering Crippling Case of Life

by: Dalton

Yesterday News was obliged to take a prolonged break after suffering the notoriously contagious disease known as Life. None of their journalists had previously had life, and some still don't. Are you prone to the random outbreaks of the disease known as Life? Find out in your home today!!?! Just mix about 1 KG of turmeric, garlic paste, Windex, battery acid, peanut butter, and raw chopped eggplant, and eat it all. It is 99.99999999999999% guaranteed to work, or your money back!

PSA: Remember to do your homework, unlike the editor of this newspaper!

Monkey Holds Train Hostage

by: Bill Fill

Yesterday at 7:30 AM at Madison Square Gardens Train Station, there was a difficult case of hostages. The victims include a mother and two children, two businessmen, and a psychologist. The psychologist tried to cool the situation, but has only majored in human psychology. As for the monkey, he was heavily armed with a gun and was drunk out of his mind. It was said that he had gone through a tough divorce, with his wife taking the kids and the bananas. The situation was handled successfully, with the monkey being released under the tough circumstances.

A dramatization of the monkey

No, I don't want you to write that. Here is what I want you to put on my advertisement:

Sentient Spider on the Loose

by: Dalton

A sentient spider was found roaming the battlefield in Kazakhstan yesterday evening. The spider was seen talking with locals about the weather, politics, and his weekend. An Easter Island politician known as Moii Bob said in a press conference, "This is obviously a plot by Kazakhstan to get revenge on us." Neurologists from Ly Ying University disagree with that theory, claiming that the spider was created by the imminent threat of Global Cooling. Moii Bob disagreed with that, called it a hoax, and started a heated fistfight with some of the neurologists. He was then gifted $5 in a bet on whether or not he would start a fistfight.

How did that thing speak??

Pi has been deemed legally and mathematically edible.

Yesterday News is now for sale in countries all inside your home town! Buy it now for only the price of air! May cause health issues including melted brain.

Not so cheery now, eh?

Cheerios a Biohazard

by: Luca S. Fillms

Cheerios are now labeled as a level 967.00569848 billion negative 100 biohazard. This is due to the mysterious "ingredients" mixed into the cheerio mixture before baking. These cheerios have caused the people infected to display violent traits, eating people on sight and passing on the cheerio virus of zombie doom. We tracked down a cheerio official putting dug up dead bodies into a truck labeled, "For making the secret zombifying ingredient!" When asked what they were doing the replied with "absolutely nothing. Hey you want some of these yummy cheerios?" Back at the headquarters of Yesterday News, Phil has eaten the cheerios and has eaten twelve staff members. We are still not sure what causes these mysterious zombie effects.

Are you hungry for Fearios? The new cereal that will zombify you! The recipe was totally not stolen from Cheerios! Buy now before we get sued into bankruptcy!

Scientist Bring the End of the World

by: Canadian

Scientists have finally found out how Purple Banana accidentally travelled through dimensions, but decided not to sell it. People say, "Don't ever use that stuff!" The scientists are now working on making Ha Wayee's magical ring to kill the cheese monster on the moon and not die from lava-cheese, and to obliterate the fourth wall with a type of bomb that can finish the job. They also started creating a time machine to fix a gap in the time-space continuum they've found. They're going to be the ones who give Ha Wayee his magic ring and make a "mistake" and kill Ha Wa Ye by "accident". Every time they try they create an immobile black hole in the same spot and tears reality apart. We predict it will go through a gap and create a wormhole that'll teleport it a few light years away in about, 2 months, which will suck because the Nintendo Switch won't be released. I can hear the black hole now. It sounds like a ton of people blowing up the roof. Well, it stopped. And I have no roof. By the time this comes out it may be in 2 weeks because my editor is very slow.

The end is nye! Speaking of nye, buy our new Science flavoured Bill! It comes in all currencies and sciences! Empty your wallet of those useless thousands and buy our cash!

Not legal tender, batteries not included.