Christmas Traditions Your Family Will Love

Being a member of a family usually means that traditions will be handed down from generation to generation. Many of us share certain Christmas traditions with our families that we learned from our own family members as a youngster. But perhaps you are only just starting your Christmas holidays as a family so you do not have any specific traditions of your very own at this point. There are plenty of well-known traditions for you to choose from and include them as a part of your own holiday celebrations. You can find traditions that are appropriate for every age group.

One popular holiday tradition with a number of families is creating Christmas cards. You could decide to send out cards customized with your own personal family photograph along with a poem or perhaps a few lines telling the recipient how much they mean to you. If you do not have enough time to create Christmas cards, you can find ready-made ones and add your own personal touch to them.

Small children are able to write letters to Santa and take them to their nearby post office. Several post offices have a special box used just for letters from Santa. Youngsters can also help with decorating the Christmas tree. As the ornaments are being hung on the tree, if there is no particular history associated with the ornaments, you could share parts of your own history with your little ones or maybe discuss the meaning of Christmas.

Yet another much-loved holiday tradition is participating in a church function together. A number of churches hold Christmas Eve services which are delightful with all of the decorations as well as the soft glow of candles. Quite a few churches like to give the live poinsettias that are used as decorations to the individuals who participate in the service.
