

Hi Tommy,

Your recent youtube upload explaining how you managed to boost your credit score to the 800s is a prime example of content that motivates people towards achieving financial freedom.

With the lack of educational awareness making it difficult to achieve this life hack, your product, the Financial Freedom Steps course, this valuable information makes it possible to achieve this life hack.

In order to truly maximize the value that your product brings to your audience,

So I went ahead and created an example post that is able to seize the customer's attention, lead them in the right direction towards their financial freedom, and leave you satisfied knowing that someone's life is being impacted for the better as well as your pocketbook.

Do you mind if I send this over to you?

Talk soon,

Jeremy L.

Creative marketing strategist