What Conditions Do Neurosurgeons Treat?

Neurosurgeons are responsible for preventing, diagnosing, and treating disorders of the brain, spine, and nerves. In addition, neurosurgeons treat and manage conditions that affect the blood flow to the brain. Neurosurgeons also help patients throughout the rehabilitation process after treatment. Here are some of the most common reasons patients see a neurosurgeon:

- Strokes, cerebral aneurysms (dilated blood vessels) or bleeding on the brain
- Benign or cancerous brain and spinal tumours
- Spinal conditions such as tethered spinal cords, herniated discs and osteoarthritis
- Head, neck or spine injuries
- Seizures, epilepsy and mobility disorders
- Neurological disorders
- Certain types of chronic pain

Why Choose Us?

As a fully accredited team of neurosurgeons, our job is to provide injury victims with the best care possible on a medical lien. A medical lien is an authorized payment of medical bills paid directly to a health care provider from the settlement or judgment. This essentially means that the patient will receive medical services "on credit," which are to be repaid once their attorney resolves the case. Therefore, there are no upfront or hidden fees when a patient receives treatment with us. Because our speciality is helping personal injury victims, the quality of care is actually heightened due to the fact that this is our expertise.

In essence, we want to make things much easier and seamless throughout the treatment process. With all of the pain and stress that you are going through, you deserve a medical team that can provide consistent, amazing results. Our team understands the pain (physically, emotionally, and mentally) that victims go through after an accident. However, we want you to know that you are not alone. If you are searching for a highly skilled neurosurgeon on lien in Van Nuys, El Monte, Bakersfield, Riverside, or San Leandro, then feel free to contact our office today to schedule an appointment.
