Abbott, Ellen. "State Fair Hydrofracking Protests Draw Activists and Politicians". WRVO. 22 Aug 2014. Web. 23 Oct 2015.

This article was written to discuss the relationship between hydrofracking and politics basically. The audience seemed to be for residents of New York as it centered around candidates running for governor and also for environmentalists interested in this controversy. It really helped answer the question I had about protesting because it gives a direct example of an anti-fracking protest and gives details about who is involved and what their beliefs are.

Begos, Kevin; Rubinkam, Michael. "Some Anti-fracking Activists Change Tactics, Tone". Huffington Post. 7 Oct 2013. Web. 23 Oct 2015.

This article focused on anti-fracking activists and how they are going about speaking out against the process. The targeted audience was environmentalists, pro-fracking groups, and also any other people who are keeping up with what's going on with this issue. This also helped me answer the questions about protests and what events have been going on surrounding the time the controversy kind of blew up.

Rapier, Robert. "Fracking Has Been Around Since 1949, Why the Recent Controversy?". Global Energy Initiative. Web. 23 Oct 2015.

This article completely focused on why fracking has suddenly become so controversial so it will really help me answering my question about what movements and cultural event have surrounded this controversy. The targeted audience was anyone who has an interest in and wants to further analyze the controversy.

Tudhope, Andrea. "Fracking Protesters Follow Hickenlooper to Aspen at Democratic Governors Association Meeting". Huffington Post. 15 July 2015. Web. 23 Oct 2015.

This article mainly focused on protesters in Colorado speaking out against hydrofracking at the Democratic Governors Association meeting. It also tied in politics to environmental issues, so the targeted audience was environmentalists, residents of Colorado, and any other people who may be interested in this controversy. This will help me answer the question I had about what protests are like regarding hydrofracking and also the one I had about how the media plays a role in what's going on here.
