On the 11th, an interview video of Jung Woo-young of the Asian Games national team was released on the YouTube channel "KFATV Korea National Football Team."

Jung Woo-young, who returned after winning a gold medal in Hangzhou, was proud, holding up the gold medal, saying, "I just came back with a medal."

At the time, Lee Kang-in and other players agreed that they would definitely win if they stayed calm, and they were able to cheer up in the second half.

Even at the moment when the whistle blew at the end of the game, Jung Woo-young said he did not realize the gold medal. "Some players actually slapped themselves," he said. Hong Hyun-suk was like that. He also has a funny personality," he added.

In particular, when asked about the most fun episode in the athletes' village, Jung Woo-young said, "The most memorable thing was only Japan and us in the athletes' village after the last game," adding, "We ate together after the game."

"We had a meal with the gold medal on the line. In Japan, people sit still and eat next to each other. I ate three bowls of rice. It really went straight in," he said cheerfully.
