PERSONALITY

Akemi is Amiable, Cheerful and Companionly. This is because she is very upbeat and cheery. She always is listening to music and dancing all around. Her energy is never ending and she often is seen roaming around school humming a tune. Sometimes, she likes to pull others in and randomly dance with her, or even take them shopping with her. She loves to befriend any and everyone [even if she might not like you, she will play nice]. Besides, she likes to give everyone a chance! Well...until they get her mad!

And although she can play nice, she can be Arbitrary, Arrogant, Cantankerous, and Dissolute. Mainly, her anger is sometimes her kryptonite. She often is very quick to erupt and start arguments if she deems necessary. She thinks she is in the right most of the time, which explains her arrogance at times. She is, well, a drama queen. On top of that, she seems to be more focused on her looks and will gladly take no critiques. It makes her arbitrary in that manner, she is a girl that does what she wants on her own accord. One moment she is painting her nails, the next she is trying to skip just for a day to go shopping.

BIOGRAPHY

Hailing from a family of chemists, Akemi was born on April 4th to two loving parents. Both were alchemists that worked in the skincare industry. They both went on to having 3 more kids, resulting in her being the oldest of them. Growing up she was loud, energetic, yet fun! But, she would constantly get into arguments. Lovely...but hey she never did not have a crowd.

In her youth she was always known to want to stick out and be different, she loved daydreaming and reading magazines as she would constantly hope that one day she could also be featured in there. Her grades at first were not the best, she seemed to slack due to the lack of interest in schooling. On top of that, she used to pick arguments over the smallest things. It was only one day when someone got her really angry in gradeschool, she decided to get revenge.

Sneaking into her parents cabinets, she managed to concoct what she thought was a potion to turn someone's hands green. Instead, when she fed the potion to said person, it actually turned their eyes green! Fascinated with it all, that person actually ended up becoming her friend. And soon, she would get a crowd of people who would ask her to make things for them. Excited, she actually became more invested in learning alchemy, and even made cute little potions for people she liked/doted on. [Though some...might've exploded...but we dont talk about those <3 ]

Ever since, she started to pay more attention in school, and even get her grades up. She wanted to perfect her craft as best as possible, so she started to get better in the math and science depart. But, it came with great GREAT determination because she hates studying and doing homework admittedly, but, she goes in and hopes to pass.

This continued all throughout gradeschool to middle school, until highschool where she was foreseen to figure out where to go.

Reason for joining Azarashi High:

Due to her parents going here, they decided it was best that she also aims to go here!! Catering to her needs, they decided to have her enroll just to foresee what she might like, after all it seemed the school had a good reputation!

And she didn't mind, after all this made her want to go into her parents footsteps, and hopefully be able to make skincare products or other fun items. Anything to perfect her craft. After all, this school seemed to offer great things catering to the students needs.

PLAYLIST | AESTHETIC | VOICE

- She loves fashion and makeup, wants to make her own skincare line
- Has a flip phone with cute charms on it
Hair is actually short/medium. She always wears extensions and dyes her hair fun colors

- Her nails are always done, and have cute charms on them to. Sometimes she likes to match with her phone
- Thinks her fashion choice is the best, sorry can't change her mind.
- gyaru
- Loves giving makeovers
- Legit is a mess with other spells. But somehow her brain activates for anything skincare related.
Suddenly she has the right potion for you
- Catch her chewing gum and eating chips in the back.
- Hates doing homework, but does it anyways and struggles.
- Will try to skip from time to time. She loves school and all, but can't miss a cute sale.
- Lowkey when she is mad, she unironically makes a potion that benefits the person instead of harming them.
- But when she is in a good mood, her recipes are..well...poo poo. But if she doesn't misread, they are probably about good.
- Mom side is Japanese, dad side has a hint of Indonesian! [Mainly his father being half]
