Abstract

Provide a maximum of 5 keywords. These keywords will be used for indexing purposes.

The abstract is factual and concise. The abstract also contains objectives, research, results, conclusions, and main recommendations. References should be avoided in the abstract. Writers should also avoid using non-standard terms. Following journal style, the abstract text should be at most 250 words. The abstract should be formatted as one paragraph. The font used by Cambria is size 10, with one spacing.

The full paper, without references or a bibliography, is between 4,000 and 7,000 words long and appears in this publication. Authors must adhere to the standard format that has been supplied; the editor reserves the right to reject a submitted paper if the initial screening reveals a disagreement with the format template. An explanation of each section of the manuscript may be found below:

INTRODUCTION (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

At most thirty percent of the content should be contained in the introduction. Background information regarding the research problem is provided in the introduction, which is backed by reliable and current factual data. Moreover, the state-of-the-art and urgency of the research must be included in this part. Closed with questions representing the research aims. There is a maximum of 1000 words in this entire section.

METHOD (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

The methods section explains the research design, participants, instruments, procedures, and data analysis techniques. The method section contains a maximum of 1000 words. The explanation of each sub-section is as follows:

Design (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

In this section, the author explains the research approach used. As well as the research design. Please do not write definitions; instead, apply them to the research that has been carried out.

Participants (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

The author explains the research participants' numbers in this section. It is imperative to provide an explanation of the recruitment process and the rationale for the selection of research participants. Additionally, you can use tables to attach demographic information about research participants.

Instruments (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

Explain the instruments used in the research. Describe the instrument, theoretical basis, scoring method, and reliability value of the measuring instrument. The author can also present a table of examples of items contained in the instrument used. A description of the logical reasons for determining the instrument is also required.

Procedure (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

The author explains the research procedures that have been carried out, both in the preparation and implementation stages. Please also clarify if researchers give rewards to participants in research. Explain informed consent and ethical clearance, if any.

Data Analysis (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

In this section, please explain the data analysis techniques used. This depends on the research approach used. Also, describe the data processing process.

RESULT (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

Writing research results must meet APA 7th Edition reference writing standards. Describe research results that are relevant to the established research objectives. This section contains 1000–1500 words.

DISCUSSION (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

The discussion section contains the author's analysis of the research results obtained. Use various reference sources from previous research relevant to the research topic. Finally, the limitations or shortcomings of the study should be explained. This section contains a maximum of 1500 words.

CONCLUSION (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

This section contains two paragraphs of conclusions, suggestions, and further development regarding the research results. The first paragraph includes a summary of the results of the research that has been carried out. In the second paragraph, the author provides theoretical and practical suggestions for further development of this research. This section contains a maximum of 500 words.

REFERENCES (Cambria, Font 12, Bold)

The author uses a reference manager to prepare citations and bibliographies. The standard format used is APA Formatting and Style Guide 7th Edition. Paragraph type (if it exceeds 1 line) in references uses hanging indentation with space 1. The references used are up-to-date and published in the last ten years. The minimum number of references is 15, the predominance being articles from accredited national and reputable international journals. Avoid using subjective references that cannot be justified (or without double-anonymized review). Some examples of writing reference sources are as follows:
