

Dr. Moore's Holiday Message

Dr. Moore, TR Bagpipe Contributor

December 12, 2024

The Christmas holiday has always been my favorite since I was a child. I can remember the excitement of creating my list for Santa Claus, the excitement of Christmas Eve, and the traditions in the Moore household. My mother baked "a million" Christmas cookies. She made too many pans of fudge. We absolutely loved these times. The season just puts folks in a good mood and makes them feel special. Followed close by is the New Year and all that a new beginning brings.

I hope that you can receive some of the Christmas gifts you want this year. Additionally, I hope that you give some gifts to the folks who take care of you. Small tokens of appreciation for all that they do for you. I promise you; they will cherish it and never forget it. You will feel better by giving and bringing joy to those who are around you. The phrase, "It is better to give than receive," is very true. Please give to your parents or whoever is taking care of you this Christmas.

Enjoy the break and be safe! We look forward to seeing you all return next year in 2025!

Season's Greetings,

Dr. Moore