

1. Momentum Trader vs Reversal trader

I choose to be a momentum trader because I'm a type of person that takes the big image and sticks to it + I'm a very patient person that can handle riding the trends until the end.

2- Scalps vs day trader vs swings vs long term investor:

I choose to do day trading since I have started learning trading for a year and few months I have had enough time to stay hours in front of the screen and I have 4hours to 5 hours a day to spend it in front of the screen mainly in the US session

3-Assets class:

I choose to trade Commodities and Bonds such as : ZN1! ZB and FGBL. Because with my experience they are heavy markets that are not easy to manipulate and they respect price action and GOLD and SILVER only when they are out of consolidation to ride the trend. And I will choose them on the FUTURES.

4- Risk Tolerance:

To be honest with you professor, I am 22years old. So I am still young and don't mind taking risks, because if it's a mistake I will learn from it and try again. So my choice is Risk seeking.