

General Knowledge Quiz

Aim: Students create their own general knowledge quiz and quiz their classmates.

Procedure:

Put students into groups of 3 or 4. If possible, create an even number of groups.

For the first round, give the groups the pre-made questions. They use these questions to quiz the other group. They keep score, and see which team gets the most points.

In the second round, give each group the blank template. Teams create their own questions. (Using either their pre-existing general knowledge, or by researching the questions on the Internet). Then the groups are re-matched with another team, and they do the general knowledge quiz a second time with their own questions.
