

"We Are Here to Change the World"

Date range confirmed by Matt Forger in Mike Smallcombe's "Making Michael"

Mike Smallcombe. "Making Michael"

"I then transitioned into Captain EO in early 1985, working on ideas with Michael at Westlake studio." (Matt Forger) Their musical ideas would develop into two songs; 'We Are Here to Change the World', written by Michael and John Barnes, and 'Another Part of Me', a song about global unity and love written by Michael alone.

Quincy Jones organized a lunch that brought Michael and Prince together. At one point, they asked him to be a part of We All The World, but Prince respectfully declined and offered to give them a song ["4 The Tears In Your Eyes"]. All I remember Prince talking about afterwards is that he thought Michael was a little bit weird. And this is coming from a guy who wore high heels and pajamas to nightclubs [laughs].

Marva King, the wife of John Barnes sang on "We're Here To Change The World" with Michael.
