Summary

Student loan payments are set to resume in less than 60 days, even as another strain of the coronavirus hinders people's ability to get back to work and return to normalcy. Student debt cancellation advocates and members of Congress will join forces this week for a week of action urging President Joe Biden to continue the payment pause as a stopgap until he uses his executive authority to cancel student debt.

[Org] is joining dozens of orgs in a week of action to demand Biden cancel student debt.

There are less than 60 days until student loan payments restart. Biden must take action NOW.

President Biden endorsed canceling student debt during his campaign, but he STILL hasn't followed through.

We're calling on Biden to stop stalling and cancel student debt NOW.

He must make good on his campaign promise.

Canceling student debt would create over 1 MILLION jobs per year and help close the racial wealth gap.

Without action, an entire generation will continue to suffer from crushing debt.

Biden can cancel student debt with a stroke of a pen. He must take action.

FYI: President Biden has the authority to cancel student debt.

He can do it with a stroke of a pen.

We're demanding Biden take action NOW to relieve a generation from crushing debt.

The consequences of restarting student loan payments would be devastating: 89% of student borrowers with jobs say they are not "financially secure" enough to begin repayments.

Biden, why would you restart student loan payments under these circumstances?

FYI: 45 MILLION people hold student debt. 36 million would be completely debt free if we cancel $50,000 of student debt.

Your reminder that the Afghanistan war cost taxpayers $300 million a day for the last 20 years.

But somehow we “can't afford” to cancel student debt.
