

Library News

The Hour of Code is coming December 5-9! Every class will get a fun, thirty-minute introduction to computer science during library that week. Students can then find an additional 30 minutes either in class and/or at home to meet or go beyond the full hour. To learn more about this worldwide initiative and to see some of the tutorials we will be using go to:

<https://code.org/student/elementary>

<https://code.org/learn>

<https://hourofcode.com/us>

Also, please be on the lookout for any lost books and return them to the library. We are having many books go lost or damaged, so if you have an overdue book please take some time in December to search your home and find that book!