

Diary from the Eyes of a Refugee

For homework, you will write a fictional diary from the point of view of a refugee. You may explore real stories of refugees or imagine a story of a refugee. Here are some websites for stories of refugees.

Imagine how the person felt about leaving their home country. Imagine how the person felt about staying in their new country. What about their family? Friends?

The diary must:

- Be at least 300 words
- Be written in first person (use “I” statements)
- Use past, present, and future verbs

The diary is due by next class. Next class, you will share your diaries in groups of three.
