Small artists != bad art styles. Not every small artist looks like they picked up a crayon yesterday.
Some of us start over for comms from different fandoms for Vtubing or whatever ventures we start.

Artstyle != bad artist.

Every artist can have a decent artstyle but their art itself might not be good at all.

U can draw for 10 years and look like you started yesterday, or start yesterday and look like you did art for years.

All i was saying was not every artist should

Also a big chunk of less good artist ask for prices that are not worth it for the client, meaning less clients = less practice

Artist should focus on improving themselves instead of always looking for places to sell on.

Perfectly good amount of artist have own kofis, websites

Also little fyi taking things so personal also will mess up your chances at becoming a full fledged artist.

Blocking me over a public, non personal or even attacking opinion is just sad, not once did i even say anything directing at you.
