BRIEF MEDICAL INFORMATION

Disabilities and Illness Insomnia	Blood Type O+
SCARS & MARKS Scar on lower forearm.	Allergies N/A
Brief Psychological Description Doctor Malko Transcript: Patient seems relatively healthy mentally and physically however they seem to show very little care for morality or ethical concerns, opting for a more 'waste nothing' outlook on all matters, she seems to quite enjoy gathering knowledge. She is bizarre but mentally fit aside from a few lapses that originated from her overworking herself.

History

11/10/1995- Nadia is born as the oldest of her siblings. The hospital visit largely goes without any issues and she is brought home safely that night. Her life goes on with little issue.

6/7/2009-Nadia has progressed steadily through her classes. Showing remarkable willingness to learn although showing a disinterest in most people, however she had a select group of friends she spent her time with, sharing a common interest in history.

8/20/2014-Nadia gets through high school largely without any issues besides some mild disagreements, largely living an ordinary life, she studies hard and decides to study abroad, going to Romania where she takes the opportunity to learn more about history and expand her knowledge on certain topics such as biology while she's there.

9/30/2018-Nadia leaves college with her diploma and sets off to continue her life, she had taken up a job as a local librarian during her time in college and had even entered a relationship during this time, things were largely looking up for Nadia at this time yet she never seemed satisfied, always seeking something more, she became a bit more radical in her line of thinking as she pursued the ideas bettering humanity, she took up a job as a researcher not long after.

7/9/2020-Nadia largely stays away from home at this point, spending countless hours in the lab. During this time she had a falling out with her partner and accepted that she couldn't provide the support she needed and the two split on good terms.

2/3/2021-Nadia is approached by the chaos insurgency, she is convinced to do some work for them at the lab and looks into a few items of interest on their behalf, getting paid very well to do so in secret. She is even sent a few items of low value to the insurgency to test how she would react to certain anomalous items.

5/6/2022-Nadia is forced into the insurgency after the foundation raided her lab. In the process she finally gets to see the bigger picture of the world they live in and ultimately understanding that the world they live in is much stranger than she initially believed it to be, she quietly falls in line, following along with the training due to the new circumstances she found herself in.

2/8/2024-Nadia had become a fervent follower in the idea of helping humanity progress during this time, immersing herself in R&D work and happily assisting with any research that slid across her desk, she had also taken a keen interest in learning more of the history surrounding the anomalous nature of the world, she also had found herself quite handy in stealth operations, a silent shadow on the wall, also largely seeking out research to steal.

1/4/2026-Nadia has up to this point become a veteran, growing used to the daily life within the insurgency, she is moved from place to place quite frequently, often filling positions as a researcher or in some cases as a stealth operative, not normally used for direct combat but still seeing her fair share. She is at last reassigned to her new permanent cell. Cell Omega-2.

Opinions

Those she knows

Doom-You seem pretty interesting. Strange but interesting.

Radix/RootRoot-I feel sorry for your situation, however, that second personality makes you seem like a risk. Especially after that photo.

Nue-You were interesting, gotta talk to you again at some point.

Limelight-I don't understand why they don't help you. Are you simply a Jester in a Beret?

Personal Journal

My first day here. This place is erratic, shifting. The people here are eccentric but work hard from what I can see. I saw a few notable people according to this cell's rank structure. Perhaps this place will

“In this world of broken things and rotting dreams, We stand in the darkness, waiting, watching. We are the daggers poised to end this masquerade and push humanity into its utopia. Hold onto your dreams, your fantasies as well. The day will come where you can seek them once more.”
