

Hello Oscar.

I don't often see protein that's backed by actual science and formulated by specialists. Most companies just leave their customers in the dark when it comes to adequate information on the sourcing and quality of their ingredients.

Kudos to you and the team for the whole approach to the field. I like the fact that you're paying attention to environmental sustainability. It shouldn't always be about the money.

Out of appreciation for what you're doing for the community, I have come up with an idea that I believe will be of value to you and help you establish a better connection between you and the reader of your newsletter.

Therefore, helping you reach your goals more quickly and efficiently with minimal effort.

Would you be opposed to receiving this gift from me?

Thanks,

Stjepan.