

Migration Video Analysis

1. Describe his life in the United States. Why doesn't he go back to Mexico with his other family instead of staying with his sister in the United States? Does he think of himself as American? (2:13)
In the US, he says that it is boring, but peaceful. He is staying for a better education, and his parents want a better life for him and his sister. He feels American at school, but sometimes he feels that he is not, because he is not from there, and could be sent back whenever.
2. Explain why people come to the United States. What does being an American citizen mean? (0:30)
People come to the US for a "better life", freedom, more opportunities, and security.
3. As you view the video write out one key fact (minimum) per minute. Describe how the migrant workers are treated. Discuss three outcomes/consequences of this migration to Qatar. (17:05)
4. Explain why the immigrants in the commercials cannot do the job they have been trained to do. (1:32)
They do not often get the opportunities they were promised, because they are immigrants/nonwhite, or because their education does not transfer to the country they immigrated to.
5. What is important to know about the mean center of the US? How has it changed throughout the years? (1:30)
The mean center is where the balancing point is. It has moved south over the years, and it has been slowly moving west.
6. Discuss how the video is an example of migration. Write out 10 key facts from the short video. (8:57)
7. Explain the title: "Work Experience and Credentials." Describe the rules and regulations in Canada. Why do countries have such rules and regulations? (2:25)
Minimum 3 years experience. Certain trades are required to have Alberta qualifications to transfer over. You have to pass exams to be an apprentice. Communication skills have to be significant. These rules are in place so that people from the country do not need jobs/ so that immigrants don't take many jobs
8. Describe what the Faroe Islands have done to solve its low birth rate. Explain if you think this is an effective way to deal with declining birth rates and population. (1:45)
It has solved its low birth rate by importing wives from the Philippines and Thailand.

12. Explain why France's World Cup team is so ethnically diverse (2-3 paragraphs). (6:01)

People came at the end of WW2 to help rebuild, and the labor shortage led to even more immigration. The economy eventually became great, so people came to get jobs. France was also in a sports crisis, and they were doing especially badly at football. They established a training center, and eventually, their team was one of the best in the world.

In 1998, they won the World Cup and more of the players were diverse/immigrants. 38% of immigrants go to Paris, and the areas they are in see riots, yet they still produce great soccer players because that's where soccer and immigration connects. The FIFA rules also allow them to have immigrant players. This is because you are allowed to play for a country if you have a connection to it.
