|| Mission Context statement ||

(Info on the background of the event)

Taskforce noble is tasked with the aftermath of a mission gone wrong. An acclamator class assault ship, dubbed the Setting Seamoan, was assigned to break the defense station around the tropical world of J'kaar, a few systems from Kashyyk using an experimental ION torpedo launcher modification it had. Though successful through strategic usage of its bombers, and the torpedoes, the cruiser suffered extreme damage and a reactor failure that caused it to plummet to the surface and into the water off an island complex.

Unfortunately, RHC and the experimental weapons designers expected it to come back. Thus Noble will need to secure the crash site from ground based CIS forces. Unfortunately the island complex is hot, literally, fuel, debris and munitions from the battle have leaked out into the water and fires have broken out.

Fortunately, a short distress signal was sent out indicating survivors, and possibly their Jedi General. The General would have had the battle data and info on their engagement if they survived. Noble must find the Data, and find the General as a secondary objective. Hopefully both can be achieved.

|| Projected Mission Success Factors ||

(Conditions - how can players succeed or lose in the event?)

Success Factors:

- Swift neutralization of ALL CIS forces during objectives 1A, 1B, and 2.
- Securing surviving Clone Squad and Jedi General.
- Procurement of General's datapad containing battle data. (Vital)

Failure Factors:

- Failing to secure a datapad containing battle data. By taking too long and losing it to the increasing hazards of the debris field, or losing or being unable to obtain it for any other reason.
