

Arjun joined Aaron Thean's Research Group at the National University of Singapore as PhD student in 2022. He had graduated with a bachelor's in biomedical engineering from the National University of Singapore. Prior to joining Professor Thean's group, Arjun worked as an assistant research officer in Wilmar International (2021-present). Under the collaboration between Professor Thean's group in NUS and Wilmar international, Arjun's thesis is focussed on development of sensors for food safety applications.

