

Things To Do In South End, Boston, MA

<https://travelbilllentsimedia.wordpress.com/2020/03/07/things-to-do-in-south-end-boston-ma/>

The South End neighborhood in Boston is culturally rich. It has restored Victorian row houses, which are surrounded by English style squares. It is a popular place for drinking and dining, and has several family-friendly bistros as well. It has eateries, and low key pubs, along with galleries and home décor shops. This shows that there are plenty of things to do in South End Boston, MA.

Sowa Open Market

This is a place located at 460 Harrison Ave., where local and tourists get to witness festivals, a farmer's market and beer gardens. This is one of the best things to do in South End, Boston MA, if people want to have some fun besides just eating at restaurants. This market is where people get to celebrate the local music and food. Every Sunday, many people rush to Sowa, to enjoy things like vintage shops, art studios and galleries. See things to do in South, Boston, MA, – Click Here. They can go to the Beer Garden to relax after shopping, which features live music for people. There are food trucks for foodies, and lawn games. This is the perfect way to end the weekend; Sowa Boston.

Toro

This is a tapas bar, and has a special cocktail bar as well. This is one of the things to do in South End, Boston MA, because of the quality of food and their presentation. The restaurant is located at 1704 Washington St. Some of the best Spanish food here includes Gambas Al Ajilío, Paella Valenciana, Asado De Huesos, Pan Con Tomate V, Pato Con Membrillo and Empanada. The drinks and the food here are good; however, some customers didn't like the taste of the drinks. Some of the most common recommendations include Bone Marrow and the Shrimp Gambas. The restaurant also serves the best Mexican corn that any restaurant would serve in the city; Yelp.

Sowa Winter Festival

This festival takes place at 500 Harrison Ave. To attend Sowa Winter Festival, is one of the things to do in South End, Boston MA, especially for tourists. This winter festival usually takes place in the first week of December. The place is a perfect stop for those people, who want to get the best winter cocktails, and discover SoWa Art design district. There are about 130 region best makers from where customers can shop, and there are several food vendors as well. Even though this is part of the Sowa Open Market, it doesn't happen every Sunday. Do you want to see things to do in Allston, Boston, MA, – Website.

Diseno

This place is located at 460B Harrison St., and is a really good place to buy furniture, floor coverings, pillows and throws and tabletops from. It is one of the things to do in South End, Boston MA, if someone really wants to redecorate their house; Diseno.

The main attraction, where people are most likely to find everything they want, is the SoWa market. If someone is at South End Boston MA for vacations, then they should go on a Sunday to the SoWa market, and enjoy their time with family or friends. See what things to do in Back Bay, Boston, MA, – Go Here.

The post Things To Do In South End, Boston, MA appeared first on Bill Lentis Media.

via Travel – Bill Lentis Media <https://travelbilllentsimedia.wordpress.com>
March 07, 2020 at 12:03PM