Firmware Downloads

- 9/12/2014 <http://burmjef.com/dashling4-rom/> Pre-rooted!
 - Has CarHome installed, but is pre-rooted with the 9/12 firmware. You can disable the CarHome by freezing it with Titanium Backup and install another launcher such as Nova Launcher or Google Now Launcher
- 8/5/2014: <https://copy.com/KCGzYmeY3hXzEWsV>
 - "It has Carhome disabled (the front end one, not the page with all the apps), so now when you hit the home button it goes to the widget and app home page, which is great. It also has the volume default set at level 9, which I think is more pleasant for getting in your car initially." (Install instructions included in zip)

General

- How to disable the CarHome launcher?
 - Use the firmware posted here , it has an unknown source so use at your own risk
 - Remove "ro.carhome.plugin=aTFRUfxByEGVtZUFjdGI2fxByEXR5fxByE" from factory.prop
 - I haven't tested this yet
- How to change what the home button does?
 - Home2 Shortcut can achieve this as well as other button customizations as long as CarHome is frozen (using App Quarantine or Titanium Backup Pro) and another compatible launcher is installed (Nova works)
 - <https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.eikatou0.appspot.home2shortcut&hl=en>
- How to reboot the unit
 - Push the small button in the upper left or right corner labeled (reset)
 - Pull down the notification curtain and select Restart
- Touchscreen not responding:
 - Reboot unit and it should come back
- Insufficient space to install apps?
 - remove .apk files and download.bin files from the root directory of the device using a file explorer
- How to bypass CarHome in latest unrooted update
 - In tasker create a new profile
 - Select App→CarHome
 - Create a new task under the new profile
 - Select App→Launch App

- Nova Launcher (or whatever you'd prefer to launch)
- Doing this will still go to the CarHome, but then will immediately go to the app you chose in the previous step
