

Lore Tab for Zen Comet

“Complete awareness, complete focus. A mind sharpened by diligence to a single deadly point.” - From the writings of Taeko-3, Praxic Deconstructionist

Sloane could feel the sterile neutrinos in the air, could smell that horrid ozone stench that she'd come to know so well after her body had begun to turn. Chitin littered the floor in the ritual chamber - this had to be the place.

Void Light seemed to suffuse the air, the shards of crystal used to power Savathûn's shrieker still laid scattered on the floor. Sloane had hoped there might be some sort of portal she could use to finally get off this damned rock, but it was clear the hive magic had become dormant long ago. Any hive left on Titan after it was stolen by the Witness eventually became taken, not unlike what was happening to her.

Sloane would have called this expedition a wash, but her eye caught on a device - no, a weapon - that lay covered in void crystals. It looked like an old Zen Meteor, though the void light and darkness had twisted it into something more.

She could use this.