

Introduction

Killer whales (orcas) are viewed by many as the kings of the ocean. They are fierce yet smart and calculated. I was a killer whale and lived up to their centuries old reputation. He has spent years exploring the ocean and over this time, I had made many great friends and been on countless adventures, exploring spooky shipwrecks to luminescent coral reefs . The ocean has given so much to I throughout his long life that he decided it is only right if he does something to give back to the place he has cherished for so many years. So with that in mind I went to his longest and best friend C to see if he would also be interested in giving back to the ocean. No questions asked, C was in.

After many years of exploring the ocean I and C noticed that the ocean doesn't have a place where all sea creatures are welcome. Our heroes decided to build the largest metropolis in all of the ocean with the goal of providing a place that welcomes all creatures of the sea. The city would be full of smart and fun-loving citizens that would all prosper with the opportunities this city would provide them with.

The great city would be called Algemantis and would be open to all creatures of the sea. Algemantis would provide its citizens with the greatest place to live in all the ocean and would give them opportunities for growth and development sea creatures could only dream of before the creation of Algemantis. To make this a reality I and C reached out to one of their oldests friends, Dragonmantis.

Dragonmantis is a one-of-a-kind immortal underwater dragon who helps make sure the ocean continues to be a safe place for all who live there. I and C knew with Dragonmantis as the ambassador for Algemantis that the entire ocean would flock to Algemantis once built. Our heroes pitched their idea to Dragonmantis, to which he simply responded “Of course I am keen. This sounds like a great idea!”

Middle

Our heroes had this great idea and as much as they wanted to turn it into reality, they knew this would not be possible alone and could not be done without the approval and support of oceans supreme rulers. The supreme rulers are a group of Astarians. The Astarians are an ancient race who are as old as time, having ruled the ocean from its very beginning. Fortunately, C was good friends with the leader of the supreme rulers, Sota. Sota allowed I and C to pitch their idea to the supreme rulers. The supreme rulers loved the idea, but questioned the feasibility of it with one of the supreme rulers saying “I love the idea, but how do you plan on building this place you dream of?”. Our heroes explained their idea of putting together a team of the oceans brightest minds to help them bring Algemantis to life. After much discussion between Sota and the rest of the supreme rulers the supreme rulers approved Algemantis. Sota has continued to be a part of the building of Algemantis, providing support in the form of resources and guidance.

Filled with excitement and joy, our heroes went on the hunt to find a team that could help govern the building of Algemantis. Knowing they would need a strong and smart crew they approached a group of tiger sharks they had an encounter with many years ago. I and C were expecting the tiger sharks to drive a hard bargain, but instead mysteriously replied to their proposal “We don’t need anymore, we will help”. With a deal in place with the tiger sharks our heroes thought it would be smooth sailing from here, but they were wrong... The cunning tiger sharks tried to outsmart and deceive I and C. The tiger sharks would ask our heroes for money for resources, but were secretly keeping some of it for themselves. Blatantly trying to commit one of the oceans most diabolical crimes, piracy. Thankfully with the years of experience I and C had from obtained their many adventures our heroes were not deceived so easily, quickly noticing the tiger sharks were trying to double cross them. Knowing the mischievous tiger sharks could not be trusted I and C ended their agreement and went on the search for a new team to help build Algemantis.

Knowing their own kind would not try to do something so cruel, I and C decided to approach some young and eager killer whales to help. This turned out to be a great decision and a smart, illustrious team, made up with some of the ocean's greatest minds was formed. Having got approval from the supreme rulers, outsmarted the malicious tiger sharks and formed an amazing team of killer whales it was time to get started on the construction of Algemantis.

End

After scouting out the best location to build Algemantis the team of killer whales got to work. They worked tirelessly to bring I and C’s vision to life. The whole team was so determined to make Algemantis a big success they would work all through the day and night, with the belief that the creatures of the ocean and the future citizens of Algemantis deserved to live in the ocean’s soon to be greatest city. And their hard work would not go unnoticed. Creatures from all across the ocean came to watch the progression of Algemantis and could not wait for the magnificent city to be built.

After months of hard work I, C and the rest of the team involved in the development of Algemantis are proud to announce that in one months’ time Algemantis will be open to everyone. Over this final month of development expect to hear more about how Algemantis will benefit its citizens, how Algemantis will be governed, the financial system that will be used throughout Algemantis and finally Dragonmantis and how he will lead Algemantis into the future as the ambassador for the city.
