Dear P.S. 81 Families,

We have begun to offer five days a week in person learning to students where there is space in the classrooms. However, we must still adhere to the CDC guidelines for social distancing.

The Department of Education established specific guidelines in making the decision as to which students will be invited. The invitation is based on student data and specific sub-groups. The number of students is also based on the available seats in each classroom.

We would love to have all of our children back in the building. Unfortunately, we can only accommodate approximately fourteen percent of the blended student population.

Hope you have a delightful weekend.

Best Regards,

Anne
