

“In character” forum proposal

Introduction/About	2
{Category and sub-fora + descriptions}
• Business/Club directory	2
• Advertisements and Events	2
• Blogs & News	2
{Introduction and Post layout}
• Business/Club directory	3
• Advertisements and Events	3
• Blogs & News	3

Introduction/About

The idea is to create a new section on the forums, where all activity remains in character, and can be used by the citizens as an addition to the city. Widening the chances of RP, making the city more welcoming for those new that want to find a spot and also decluttering a bit the in-game chat. This is a start point but eventually this forum section should adapt to the use been given by the citizens and their needs.

{Category and sub-fora + descriptions}

Home >> In Character

This section of the forums is for IN CHARACTER (IC) only posts. All information and conversations are IC and the information can be used in-game. Similar to the /tweet mechanic in-game.

Home >> In Character >> Business/Club directory

This section has a list of the businesses of Los Santos City and County. Only serious inquiries. Feel free to list your own in here. The owner of each business is required to keep the information updated and legitimate.

Home >> In Character >> Advertisements and Events

This is a public pin board for citizens, companies or organisations to post advertisements or organised events.

Home >> In Character >> Blogs & News

The place for news companies or bloggers to post their content. (No body-cams or personal attacks)

{Sub-fora pinned introduction post}

Business/Club directory

This topic is dedicated to creating an easy to use business and club directory for players who want to formalise or officiate their organisation. All information in this post is knowledge people could look up on the internet (or other sources) on your firm/club. While creating a post you are able to add as many things as you like to the basic layout listed below, this layout is merely a guideline to keep some sense of order among all the posts. Most important in creating a post of your own is following the suggested title format.

Be aware that some information might be sensitive, this can either be left blank (or using private). You might also want to consider not creating the post at all if most of the operations are illegal or delicate (like a private detective listing all his/her agents by name).

Suggestions marked with an asterisk (*) are possible customisable tabs to clarify your business in your specific way.

Suggested Layout

Title: Business/Club + Name

Business/Club name:

Founder:

Employees/Members:

*Product or service:

*Goal:

*Base of operations (beware of METAgaming):

Advertisements and Events

This sub-forum is the place to post all advertisements. Whether this is to promote your new business with a limited time deal (don't forget to put down a phone number!) or to inform people of the fishing contest that is going to happen two days from now.

It might be fun to add how you plan to advertise this information in the city, like dropping flyers through town containing the following information : your post

The advertisements and events are not required to follow any sort of layout other than the title of the post. The title should mention the date, the easiest way to do this would be like this : "Sandy Shores dirtbike race [11-09-17]". Suggested to use American notation (MM/DD/YY) though this is not required.

Blogs & News

All posts listed in this sub-forum should be written in-character and can not contain any OOC obtained information. Therefore there will be no use of body cams (streams or recordings) to create the article. Anybody can create a blog here about their adventures or encounters in the city, but be aware that writing about your latest bank heist with names and personal information might not be the smartest thing your character could do.

If people feel like working for Weazel news they could post their articles in here as well. It is highly encouraged to let your creative urges flow so feel free to use screenshots or quotes from people.