1. Introduction[Times New Roman 12pt, Bold]

The first few paragraphs of this section should situate the work within a broad conceptual framework and justify its importance to a diverse scientific audience. This section should contain sufficient information about the literature which used as a framework of knowledge. The last paragraph of the introduction should clearly state the specific research questions being addressed in the manuscript and address their importance to the field. No more than 10 pages from this page until the reference. [Times New Roman 12pt]

2. Method [Times New Roman 12pt, Bold]

This section should contain sufficient information to allow others to repeat the research. For well-known methods and their minor variants, it is sufficient to summarize them and provide key references. It is also critical to provide detailed descriptions of the study design and the statistical analyses performed to evaluate all focal hypotheses. [Times New Roman 12pt]

2.1 [Presenting]Table[Times New Roman 12pt, Bold]

Tables are numbered in order of presentation. The table title is presented above the table as shown in Table 1. Use one spacing for the content of the table.[Times New Roman 12pt]

3. Result and Discussion[Times New Roman 12pt, Bold]

Findings should be described succinctly. When describing large sets of data, extensive sequence information, additional illustrations, etc., that you will place in the supporting information section, please end the relevant line with (see source) in parentheses so that readers will know where to look.

The major findings can be briefly highlighted at the beginning of this section, but the results should not be repeated. Instead, they should be interpreted using logic and previously published articles. Author should cite here as many sources as possible. [Times New Roman 12pt]

4. Conclusion [Times New Roman 12pt, Bold]

This brief section should include a summary of the paper's major findings, along with a discussion of their significance and novelty to the field. [Times New Roman 12pt]

Appreciation [Times New Roman 12pt, Bold]

Awards can be written regarding parties who might be considered meritorious in the completion of writing the manuscript. [Times New Roman 12pt]

REFERENCES [Times New Roman 12pt, Bold]

The template will number citations consecutively within brackets [1]. Use the IEEE style and minimum use 10 references. The sentence punctuation follows the bracket [2]. Refer simply to the reference number, as in [3]—do not use “Ref. [3]” or “reference [3]” except at the beginning of a sentence: “Reference [3] was the first ...”

Number footnotes separately in superscripts. Place the actual footnote at the bottom of the column in which it was cited. Do not put footnotes in the abstract or reference list. Use letters for table footnotes.

Unless there are six authors or more give all authors' names; do not use “et al.”. Papers that have not been published, even if they have been submitted for publication, should be cited as “unpublished” [4]. Papers that have been accepted for publication should be cited as “in press” [5]. Capitalize only the first word in a paper title, except for proper nouns and element symbols.

For papers published in translation journals, please give the English citation first, followed by the original foreign-language citation [6].
