Subject:

Echoes of doubt, but I chose to believe...

Intro:

And Everything Changed

Body:

Today, I'm stronger, richer, and more wise than ever.

At first, nobody believed in me. Their negative words stung but I didn't give up.

Instead, I focused on my weaknesses, confronting them daily. As a result, I've become more well rounded, and qualified to handle bigger problems which yield greater results

It wasn't easy...

For years I was stuck working in a dead-end job, surrounded by unmotivated people, yearning for a change that never seemed to come.

To break out of this rat-race, I'd have to catch some luck.

Or at least that's what I thought.

This EXACT mindset held me back.

Eventually, I grew tired of my weakness.

And a voice from deep-within my soul began to make itself known.

It was time for an important decision.

To accept life's circumstances as they were, and cowardly go on.

Or lean into the dreadful agony that defined my existence, and use it as fuel.

The choice was in my hands.

And at that moment, I recognized who I needed to become. For once in my life I'd be willing to sacrifice anything.
