Brief Character Bio

The youngest of six children (twins, single, twins, her) and the only female child, she was both bullied and highly protected by her older brothers. Raised in the middle butt-fucked-nowhere Texas about an hour from Fort Hood, TX on a horse-breeding ranch. Her grandparents owned the cattle ranch next door with the properties only separated by a spring-fed creek and pond. Family is riddled with military retired and active depending on being ranchers. Incredibly overbearing by nature and stubbornness is a family trait. Her childhood and adolescence were riddled with the perspective of "our lives are perfect and there are no skeletons in the closet or buried elsewhere." A Nice way to picture it was Better Homes & Gardens and Martha Stuart in one. Her family was entirely too focused upon image, and to this day anyone could enter her grandparent's home like it should be a center spread in Better Homes & Gardens, while her mother was someone who acquired, drained dry, and chewed up men like strippers went through singles. K

Kitty was kept incredibly encapsulated in her environment with her every moment to moment functions meticulously thought through by either her Mother or Grandmother. She was placed in a highly old fashioned Parish Catholic School with Priests and Nuns. She was deliberately kept extremely naive. Her disassociation and acute anxiety issues manifested early due to many events that happened during this time, and she does not actively remember most of those blocks of years unless she is unlucky to experience flashbacks, which happens more than she cares to admit. Overall, it was a time of her life she tended to look at as part of someone else's life rather than her own.

She was not the type to date when she was young; she entirely skipped that level of development and to this day remains ignorant to the point of painful naivete in all things regarding hetero interactions of intimate, sensual, or sexual natures. Her knowledge is all but pubescent due to how strangled her childhood and adolescent years were and due to an event she purposely blacked out when she turned 13 years old, she had actively avoided relationships for the longest time. It wasn't until her first real female relationship was ending years of hell and she finally worked up the courage to climb out of that pit of physical and psychological detriment, did she meet someone who helped bandage many of her previous wounds. She found solace within the LGBTQ Community and to some level the kink community once she came the age of consent (for the latter); however, she kept herself a Top in the bedroom that stifled reciprocation due to her own insecurities. As far as the kink community, she allowed herself to be a 'professional masochist' as an outlet for the need to feel and experience pain as well as catharsis, but without power play dynamics, again this was a facet of her need to control every scenario for a sense of self. She had a change in her life after getting into a platonic relationship with a biker who was a Nam Vet, who became her life's mentor until she was forced to leave Chicago, IL. She became obsessed with two things, enabling herself to be stronger and harder, as well as anything that drove on two wheels when she can't be riding something with four legs. Her family considered this practically a mortal sin. Therefore, she took off on two wheels when she got her own and hasn't stopped the vagrant life since.

Works on the surface as a tattoo artist and occasionally sells paintings on the side. Works as a "Black Hat" hacker with the handle L.T. or Lil Twisted for those who are in the circle to know. She has been skilled enough to avoid convictions and keeps a clean record barring a couple of different bar fights where people attempted to get her for assault but she managed to get out of actual charges.

When she hits a town, she tends to look for Net Cafes, Coffee Shops, Rock Climbing and/or Parkour Clubs, Kick Boxing Gyms where she can work out and still handle cardio as necessary. Then she looks for places with good liquor. While she is not great at card style gambling, she is pretty adept at pool sharking; however, she only tends to resort to this when she knows she is going to blow through a town quickly.

Due to her time in the LGBTQ community and the 'nudist' community in Austin, she is familiar with her body in that fashion, so long as there is no sexual tension involved. Hedonistic and a pocket nudist by nature once she is comfortable but absolutely loyal to a fault when she finally digs in deep.

Role Play Limit Guidelines

1. Typist Active Consent Required - I will not engage actively or passively in a scene that involves children and what is considered under the age of consent OOCly gave or not. The same goes for animals who can not logically give consent. I am a thorough, logic-based role player with uncommon common sense. I hope for the same from you.
2. I demand realism and full immersion as I expect to provide the same in return. On that note, not a limit but my character has a thick accent. It is phonetic, ie "hooked on phonics will work for you"; however, if this trick does not work, please do not feel you cannot IM me for clarification or better yet roleplay not understanding what the hell came out of my mouth. Neither will offend me.
3. I will not participate in OOC related drama or arguments of any kind that include discussing race, sexuality or sexual preferences, gender identity, religion, or ethnic mores of any type.

Disclaimer: This profile is for Role-Play Purposes Only.
Any and all stories, histories, and actions are of an RP nature.
Never are there L$ in exchange for any services rendered in character.

4. Unless it is thoroughly, logistically, completely and utterly justifiable, and -last but not least- discussed at length, I refuse to be dismembered or killed permanently. Actions that can be healed from, even at the expense of extended hospitalizations can be discussed and agreed upon.
5. I am open to dark RP. I rarely, if ever, feel the need to fade to black; however, that being stated, depending on the degree of potential damage physical and psychological that may ensue, please discuss an overall outline with me or at the very least the objective of the scene (not to be confused with your desired play by play because I do not believe in completely pre-planned scenes due to lack of creative license and individuality) with the potential means in which you might decide to engage in to get there. Most else to all things under this umbrella are negotiable if not out agreeable.
6. I have an active MamaAllpa for realism & immersion. Don't Abuse the 'Forced' without RP or I'll void preggo. RP IS 100% MANDATORY! Trust Me-I'm Not Afraid of RP. However, The RP May Not Always Go As Planned Though
7. Regardless of how much I may or may not come across as a potential cunt in character, this does not reflect my real life. I am generally amicably natured; thus, do not infer the emotions of my character onto my person. If you feel at any time the need to clarify your position within a roleplay or potential roleplay, please do not hesitate to IM me. Actions and the like are negotiable and if there becomes a point where the scene may become too intense or perhaps hit a personal emotional and/or psychological land mine, I expect you to notify me so this can be amended in some form or fashion as I am not out to cause anyone emotional or psychological discomfort in real life.
