Placement issues can be sorted most effectively by raising them with your UG coordinator for the placement, you can also message your year course reps or us in order to try raise your issues at student-staff meetings.

QMUL Report and Support is an online platform that provides students and staff at Queen Mary University of London with a confidential and accessible way to report any issues, concerns, or incidents related to harassment, bullying, discrimination, or other welfare matters. It can be accessed through the official QMUL Report and Support website (https://reportandsupport.qmul.ac.uk/ ), offering a safe space for individuals to seek help, advice, or report incidents, ensuring a supportive and inclusive university environment.

You can access QMUL Careers and Enterprise services through their website (https://www.qmul.ac.uk/careers/how-to/book-an-appointment/career-guidance/ ). It offers valuable resources for students seeking career guidance and support, including personalized appointments to explore career options, prepare for interviews, and enhance employability skills.

QMSU Student Support Services offer a wide range of resources to help students at Queen Mary University of London, including academic support, mental health services, and financial guidance. For more information and access to these services, please visit the Queen Mary University of London website at https://www.qmul.ac.uk/outreach/parents-and-carers/student-support-services/.

QMSU Advice and Support Services offer a wide range of assistance to Queen Mary University of London students, including guidance on academic issues, housing, and well-being. You can access these services by visiting the QMSU Advice & Support webpage (https://www.qmsu.org/advice/ ), where you'll find valuable resources and support tailored to your needs.

The Barts and The London Students' Association (BLSA) Support Services provide a range of resources, including academic support, housing advice, and wellbeing assistance, to enhance the student experience at Barts and The London School of Medicine and Dentistry. These services can be accessed through the BLSA website at https://www.bartslondon.com/support .

QMUL's academic support offers a wide range of services, including assistance with study skills, academic writing, and research methods, to help students excel in their studies. Additionally, it provides valuable resources and guidance on improving exam techniques and managing coursework, fostering academic success. For more details, you can explore the

QMUL academic support services here:
https://www.qmul.ac.uk/student-advice-and-signposting-hub/academic-support/ .