

Savitri and Satyavan are a loving couple. One day, Satyavan suddenly got sick and gradually died. At this time, Death came to them and took Satyavan's soul away. On the tunnel leading to hell, Savitri followed Death until he reached the gate of hell. Death said, "I know you love Satyavan, but it is destined and you have to accept the arrangement. This is the gate of hell, and mortals can't enter, so please go back!"

Unwillingly, Savitri begged Death to return Satyavan to the world, and Death was finally touched by her sincerity. He said, "I will give you a chance to bring Satyavan back to the world, but it depends on whether your willpower is strong enough." Savitri immediately agreed to Death without saying anything. Death continued, "The soul needs a guide to return to the world. If you go back along the tunnel of hell, I will let Satyavan's soul follow you. Before you walk out of the tunnel and return to the world, you must not look back at Satyavan, otherwise your husband's soul will fall directly on the ground." Savitri answered Death's request and became her husband's guide.

On the way back, Savitri didn't look back at first, but she became suspicious because whoever followed behind her was so calm. She thought it could be a falsehood by Death, so she thought of a way and shouted "Satyavan" as she walked, but no one answered her, and it made her anxious. Finally, she couldn't help and turned around. When she looked back, she saw Satyavan's soul, but Savitri cried. It turned out that Death didn't lie to her. At this time, Death appeared in front of Savitri and said, "I know you love Satyavan, so you must be suspicious and can't wait to make sure what I said was true. In order to prevent you from making Satyavan disappear, I decided to reproduce Satyavan's soul until you looked back and knew the truth. After that, I put Satyavan's soul behind you and follow you." Savitri was very moved after listening to it. During a chat, Savitri knew that the god of Death could be upgraded after ten years of practice. The young Savitri decided to die for ten years to thank him. After some negotiation, Death decided to accept her life and return Satyavan's soul to Savitri.
