

Introduction

The UNDEFINED Framework is the academy's development system.

It has been designed to ensure every dancer trains in the environment best suited to their current ability while providing clear opportunities to develop, achieve and progress throughout their journey.

At UNDEFINED, we believe every dancer deserves to feel challenged, supported and valued—regardless of their current level.

Our philosophy is simple:

We don't measure dancers by the group they're in. We measure them by the progress they make.

The Three Training Groups

The UNDEFINED Framework is built around three training environments, each with a different purpose.

INFINITY

Foundation Group

Training Day: Tuesday

Infinity is designed to help dancers build strong foundations through technical development, confidence building, musicality and performance skills. This environment focuses on creating excellent habits that will support long-term development.

Open to all.

VECTOR

Development Group

Training Day: Friday

Vector provides a more challenging training environment for dancers who are ready to build upon their foundations through increased technical demand, performance quality and versatility.

Open to all.

AXIS

Elite Team

Training Day: Saturday

Axis is UNDEFINED's elite team.

Members represent the academy through competitions, major performances, promotional projects and other high-level opportunities.

Entry into Axis is by audition or invitation only.

Axis is not simply another class—it is a commitment to representing UNDEFINED both inside and outside the studio.

Initial Placement

Every new dancer attends an initial class where they are observed by our coaching team.

This is not an audition.

The purpose is simply to understand the dancer's current ability and determine which training environment will best support their development.

Following the class, each dancer receives:

- A recommended training group.
- Personalised feedback.
- Areas of strength.
- Areas to continue developing.

This ensures every dancer begins their journey in the environment where they are most likely to succeed.

Progression Between Groups

Progression is based on readiness, not time.

As dancers continue to develop, coaches may recommend progression into another training group when they believe it will provide the most appropriate challenge.

Dancers may also audition for, or be invited into, any group within the framework, including Axis.

Typical progression may look like:

Infinity → Vector → Axis

However, every dancer progresses at their own pace.

There is no expectation that all dancers will follow the same timeline.

Additional Training

To encourage continued development, dancers may attend training sessions below their current placement.

For example:

- Vector dancers may also attend Infinity.
- Axis dancers may also attend Vector and Infinity.

This provides additional opportunities to strengthen foundations, increase training hours and continue developing across all areas of dance.

Every Dancer Receives

Regardless of their training group, every dancer has access to:

- STATS Card assessments.
- Dancer of the Month.
- ISTD qualifications.
- Performance opportunities.
- Workshops and masterclasses.

Every dancer is equally valued within the UNDEFINED Framework.

Axis members receive additional opportunities as representatives of the academy, including competitions, major performances and promotional projects.

Every dancer follows the same development journey.

Branch Ambassadors

Each training group is represented by a Branch Ambassador.

Branch Ambassadors help communicate the voice of their group, support the academy community and encourage a positive training environment.

They represent leadership, responsibility and the values of UNDEFINED.

Our Philosophy

The UNDEFINED Framework has been created to provide more than dance classes.

It is a structured development system that combines training, assessment, achievement and opportunity to support every dancer throughout their journey.

Every dancer's pathway is unique.

Some will focus on performances.

Some will pursue ISTD qualifications.

Some will become ambassadors.

Some will earn a place within Axis and represent UNDEFINED through competitions and elite opportunities.

Every journey is different, but every dancer is supported by the same framework.

Every beat writes the equation. Our moves change the outcome.
