A survey was conducted to learn about students' reading habits. Over 100 students were asked three questions. The results of the survey are as follows.

When asked how often they read, 41% of the students said they read every day. Another 38% reported reading once or twice a week, and 21% indicated that they hardly ever read at all. Next, the students were asked what type of books they prefer to read. 41% said that fiction is their favorite genre for reading, with preferences for adventure, fantasy, and romance novels. 32% stated that non-fiction is more preferred and 27% chose textbooks as their top pick.

Finally, when asked where they like to read, 58% said that libraries are their favorite places for reading. 22% chose their bedrooms as the most comfortable spot which allows them to read and 20% reported studying in cafés as their preference. Overall, it is clear that students enjoy reading regularly and enjoy a variety of content when doing so.
