05	THINK Ray's friends plan to go to the museum. They invite Ray. He is not interested and does not want to go.  Correct  Incorrect Please click the audio icons to listen to the responses. Select whether the given response is Correct or Incorrect and click Submit.  Submit © 2023, Wadhvani Foundation. All Rights Reserved. 	It is better to choose a different male character name here. (The Watch 1 male character also has the same name. This might confuse the audience). Please change it to any other male character name from the English character name list.
06	THINK Ray's friends plan to go to the museum. They invite Ray. He is not interested and does not want to go. I'm sorry, I cannot go; but thank you for asking.  Correct  Incorrect  That's an incorrect option. Ray's response is firm and polite, which is appropriate for this situation. © 2023, Wadhvani Foundation. All Rights Reserved. 	Please change the name even from the feedback box on selecting incorrect option. (This comment is a continued one from the last comment).

Instead of directly starting with the concept, I would have first provided an interesting hook to the learners, instigating them to think of how important it is to learn to say No or refuse politely. I would have given two small scenarios where a person ends up saying No blatantly and in another case the person is too generous to say NO and ends up accepting the task instead of refusing it.
