

Hey (name),

Now, as you already know, email marketing is a very powerful tool, and if used right, it can get great results.

Engagement, open rates, you name it.

Emails' efficiency will be better and improved.

To get the best results possible, not only will you get better results, you will also save time by letting me write emails for you.

So I made you a free example of a first email of a welcome sequence for you to see the glimpse of the strategies used to create the best emails possible.

Let me know if you're down for it.

(Email example link)