Subject- “Thank you letter after being fired

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank you for my time with [Mention the company name]. I learned a lot during my time at the agency, and I'm confident that the skills I obtained will help me in my real estate profession for many years to come. I am passionate about with this firm and the products we provide, and I enjoy sharing that enthusiasm with customers and promoting the usage of our technology.

Take full responsibility for the repercussions of your discontent with me. My activities were against business rules, and the projects were overwhelming. I'm sorry this has brought you and the organization such embarrassment.

I recognize that my time management issues made my position untenable, but I appreciate that I was given the chance to correct them before being fired. Despite my inability to fulfil the minimum standards, I will implement the lessons I've gained from this experience to become a better professional in the future.

I recognize that my sales results for the previous quarter fell short of expectations, and I've already started working to enhance my performance in the future. I am immensely grateful for this chance to prove myself in the following weeks, and I am looking forward to proving your decision with my increased performance.

I'll take what I've learned and do my best where life takes me as I go on a new path away from the organization. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to be a part of your team for the past [Mention the no of years].

Again, thank you for the chance and the lessons you gave me at [Mention the name of the company].

Best wishes,
