SL: I was scrolling through Instagram when I realized I can finally pay the dept.

I was so happy yet so suspicious will it work?

Back in the day, I was a typical 22-year-old American student Who has to pay his dept.

I was depressed, sad, and even taking drugs at one point.

I couldn't focus on my studies no matter what.

If I failed one more exam I would have to repeat the year and my parents would kill me

A few weeks stud before I repeated one year of college and me getting killed.

I was dead inside, I only ate, slept, and scroll through social media trying to find a point of life.

BTW I ate really bad food because I didn't have money for better not only my mental health was bad my phisical health was even worse.

Then one day I saw one eye-catching ad, I don't remember how I reacted because I was so emotionally numb but I know I was super hyped.

I punched myself very hard, cleaned myself up, and started grinding for a better life.

If you want to know how I solved this life problem.
