`/deposit`: To deposit into your Fortuna wallet, you can either fund it directly by sending USDC.e on Polygon to your ETH wallet, or use Fortuna’s bridging feature by sending USDC on Solana to your Solana wallet.

`/withdrawl`: To withdraw from Fortuna, open your wallet using `/wallet` in Telegram. Tap Withdraw, then select the token you want to send (e.g., USDC or POL) and choose the network (Polygon or Solana). Enter the recipient wallet address carefully, specify the amount, and confirm the transaction.

Bridging

Solana > Polygon Bridging

When bridging from Solana, Fortuna runs everything through deBridge. You only pay deBridge's small fee, and every bridge earns you points in their rewards program. If a bridge ever fails, just retry. There's no burn step, so your funds are always secure.

Automatic Token Swap

Every time you bridge in, Fortuna automatically converts 2% of your SOL into POL to cover gas fees on Polygon. If that swap fails (rare, but it happens), you can fix it manually in /wallet. Inside /wallet, you'll also find quick buttons for:

- Swap POL → USDC
- Swap USDC → POL

How to Bridge In

To bridge funds into your Fortuna wallet, hit "Fund Wallet" under /wallet, or go straight to the source with: /fund

Fortuna will guide you step-by-step on moving assets from Solana to your Fortuna wallet on Polygon, no external setup, no waiting, just bridge and trade.

When you join Fortuna, you'll get your very own unique referral link. Share it with your friends, and every time someone signs up through your link and starts trading, you'll automatically earn a percentage of the fees from their trades.

Your earnings are calculated from Fortuna's standard 1% trading fee. Fortuna operates on a tiered fee structure based on trading volume, with higher volumes offering better rates and cashback in USDC. The fee structure is as follows:

Tier	% Net Fee	Cashback	Volume
0	1%	0.00%	0
1 (1x)	0.95	0.05%	<$10,000
2(2x)	0.90	0.10%	$10,000-$99,999
3(2.5x)	0.88	0.13%	$100,000-$250,999
4(3x)	0.85	0.15%	$250,000-$499,999
5(3.5x)	0.83	0.18%	$500,000-$999,999

7(5x)	0.75	0.25%	>$2,000,000
