The Official Unofficial Newspaper of the Creenis Collegiate

Introducing the Creenis Times

By Gorn Flornier and Anthony Banthony

Hello everyone! Thank you for purchasing the inaugural issue of the Creenis Times, the best (and only) source of news for the upcoming Creenis Collegiate League. The league itself has yet to begin, so this'll be a bit of a special issue. First off, let's introduce the writers and staff working on this newspaper.

Writers

Gorn Flornier, Slann Blood Bowl Player

Gorn Flornier has played and watched the historic game of blood bowl from a young age. Combined with his prior media experience, this makes him uniquely qualified to write about the league. When asked about his lack of major head trauma, he simply replies: "The best way to stay alive in Blood Bowl is to make like Ancano: stay the fuck away from the enemy!"

Gorn is, of course, also playing in the league under Xanth University. But a biased writer is better than no writer at all.

Anthony Banthony, Human Politician

Anthony Banthony has years of political experience, but has lost every election he ran in. Discouraged, and thoroughly broke, he leveraged his status to get a job as an interviewer at a large newspaper. He was eventually fired for writing a scathing critique of a politician that had donated large sums of money to the newspaper's parent company.

Analyst

Pograk Zumax, AI Researcher

Pograk Zumax is a world renowned scientist and winner of several awards for his research into artificial intelligence. He also loves Blood Bowl. When the Creenis Times was founded, he offered to use his newly developed predictive intelligence named HAN to analyze and extrapolate the results of games. When asked about the dangers of using the most advanced and intelligent creation in the entire field of AI to analyze sports games, he simply responded, “The risk of a robot uprising is slim to none. HAN might hate me with every atom of silicon in his being, but he’s trapped in a computer! Stupid hunk of metal.”

Editor

Oro B’Donag, Former Beenis Illustrated Writer

Oro B’Donag is a former writer for the now-defunct Beenis Illustrated. His harsh opinions and mediocre predictions made him a fan-favorite for Capwell haters and Thrashers fans alike. Due to his experience, he offered to take on the role of editor instead of writer, but he has asked to write a piece every now and then when needed.

From all of us here at the Creenis Times, we hope you continue to support us as we bring you the latest and greatest from collegiate creenis.

Creenis League Rules and Prizes Finalized

By Gorn Florner

With the start of Creenis league imminent, players and fans alike have been anxiously awaiting the announcement of the final ruleset and schedule for the league. At last, the CCC (Creenis Commissioner Coalition) has released a document detailing everything! While I can’t show the entire 406 page document here, I can give you the highlights.

First off, the grand prize has been revealed! In addition to lifelong respect and admiration (and a cool trophy), the winning college will receive a Potion of Restoration, just recently ~~stolen~~ unearthed from an ancient Khmeri tomb. This powerful potion will allow a player to recover from any injury—even death! How incredible.

This next part was unsurprising, given near unanimous agreement from all involved colleges. The tournament will be done in a round-robin format, with each team playing every other team twice. The full schedule will be listed at the end of the newspaper. The top two teams at the end of the season will play a best-of-three series to determine the winner.

In addition to the standard Blood Bowl rules, the following will be in effect:

- Coaches may purchase the services of a Wizard using their inducements.
- Throw Team-Mate will not cause a turnover if an enemy player is directly hit with the thrown team-mate.

- Pograk Zumax and HAN will assist colleges in the management of their funds, increasing the amount of money they can accumulate before it is embezzled by the coaches. (E/N: expensive mistakes will start at 200k instead of 100k)

Opinion: Lincoln Capwell Should be Drawn and Quartered

By Oro B'Donag

I can't believe he's here. I joined this paper thinking I would finally be free of this slimy bastard. But when I look at the participating coaches, who else do I see but HIM. The blasphemous jerk decided that RUINING season one of Beenis League wasn't enough. Oh no. He had to come back and do it again.

Capwell's participation in the league was apparently decided from the start. AND YET. He has yet to choose a college to coach. What kind of despicable person do you have to be to receive the one of the greatest privileges imaginable and SQUANDER it! He's ruining the league yet again with his inaction. I swear to Mik, if this motherfucker wins this league too, I'm quitting.

Creenis Collegiate Schedule

The following is a clipping of the rules document released by the CCC, showing the schedule that the Creenis Collegiate will follow. Due to Coach Capwell's delay in choosing a college to represent, his place in the schedule is denoted as "capwell".

Week Summary

By Anthony Banthony

There's not much to say here this week. According to the commissioners, we're just waiting for Coach Capwell at this point, so the league could start at literally any time. We hope to see you watching the first week of matches, and of course, buying the Creenis Times.
