

Privacy Policy — Pages Read

Pages Read does not collect, track, or sell personal data.

All reading data (such as books, pages read, sessions, and goals) is stored locally on your device. If iCloud is enabled, this data is synced privately through Apple iCloud using the user's own Apple ID.

Pages Read does not use analytics, advertising SDKs, third-party trackers, or cookies.

No personal information is shared with the developer or with third parties.

If you contact the developer (for example by email), your message and email address are used only to respond and are not stored for other purposes.

For questions about this privacy policy, you can contact the developer at:
