

Lying Politicians, Bernie's Integrity, Human Struggle & A Better System

01/08/2020

(Note: I originally wrote this as a phone text to a friendly politician running for a local office that stopped to say hi and introduce himself yesterday. We had a nice chat but I think all the information I hit him with kind of through him for a loop, but he "seemed" receptive and understanding and remained friendly and attentive. So he said to text him a link to my website so he could read more.

But where I screwed up (and I'm sorry about that) is talking bad about some Republicans (when later he said he's a Republican), when what I really meant to say (but knew I didn't have "time" to say everything that I don't like about "both parties" or have much "time" to talk to him because he'd soon move on to the next house looking for a vote; most people lack "time" for the most important things) is that Republicans and Democrats both have major issues but that many Republicans lack the essentials of Love for others by promoting policies that disenfranchise millions of people, wanting to cut food stamps, healthcare (Medicaid & Medicare), Social Security and most other programs that people NEED to survive. People's pain, suffering, and deaths don't seem to bother most of the republicans, they cheer for it in a hate-filled way "fuck 'em, if they don't work they can't eat...and so on". It shouldn't be "Americans First" but instead "Humanity First".

Democrats in power have many problems too, mostly because they remain dedicated Capitalists, but at the same time do seem to at least somewhat care about others, even though they can't find the right ideas to help because they are blinded by the corrupt Monetary System, they can't see that the problem lies in the foundation of Money Creation as DEBT by the "Privately-Owned" World Banks. Money creation shouldn't be created as DEBT to be paid by citizens through taxation, the money was created from nothing, out-of-thin-air, numbers typed into a computer or paper money printed on an automated machine, money is just a human construct, and the way it's created has enslaved the world by its IMAGINARY FANTASY DEBT.

Anyway. I later texted him an apology for me mentioning how most Republican politicians seem to not really "care" or "Love" people. I did mention earlier when we talked, that I have many family and friends that are Republican and that I still Love them and want what's best for them, I want them to not have to struggle for survival and basic comforts, even if they disagree with me and have hateful argumentative attitudes toward me and others. But I also try to avoid talking any kind of politics and economic theory because they fly off the handle with such hate and anger, and I'm family or their good friend, so I can only imagine if I were somebody they didn't know or Love. If someone has that much anger and hate for a Loved One, just imagine how much more they don't care about the other people in the world that they don't know, and that shows when it comes time to make laws and policies, such as immigration, welfare programs and much more. So, anyway, I just thought I'd add a little pretext to explain what inspired me to write the following text to him.)

Hello *****, Another thing I've noticed about government is that most politicians lie, they put on an act of "caring" for others and then turn out to just be another lying politician with an ulterior motive, just looking for a vote, but once they got the vote or realize they won't get someone's vote they just move on to the next sucker, to put on their next act.

That's why I like Bernie Sanders, his Love is "Authentic", he isn't acting. His record speaks volumes, what he says & does goes back over 30 to 40 years, all on video, and in his voting record. He has been consistent and doesn't lie, and most of all he really cares/Loves the people, everyone, even if he doesn't "like" some, he still wants what's best for them, to not be burdened with outrageous debt, to not have to go bankrupt because they need life-saving healthcare and medicine; to not go into a lifetime of debt just to get an education (an education in which all of society would benefit from, because the more smart people there are in the world, the better off the whole world will be, we all benefit from someone else's higher education, so education should not only be "free" but we should also "pay" people who are pursuing a higher education since that education will benefit society and future generations).

Bernie has Heart and Integrity, unmatched by any other politician I've seen. He fought in the civil rights movement and marched with MLK and even got arrested marching in the protests with black Americans, never backing down. He is trustworthy, unlike most politicians which just "act" nice and trustworthy just to get a vote then show their true colors by their silence, apathy and/or hate, and then later just put on a facade of more acting and lying when it's time to get someone's vote.

It's sad really, what this country is becoming, or shall I say has been for a long time, but today it's worse than ever. From the biased and lying mainstream media like FOX News, CNN, MSNBC and other Capitalist networks with only the interest of maintaining their status quo of "profit", so they propagate lies and ignorant bias to indoctrinate society into a consumeristic monetary system of wage/debt slavery, rendering most people ignorant, obedience and subordinate to a corrupt political and economic system.

We need to cut through all the bullshit, lies, doublethink, apathy, and hate, and create a better world based on and built with a core foundation of Authentic Love, compassion, empathy, forgiveness, kindness and all the other essential ethics and morals encapsulated by, and within the true essence of Love. Anything less is a failure to humanity and the God of Love.

In order to manifest such a society, the socioeconomic system must be updated to one that Lifts Everyone Up all at once, by removing the financial boot from everyone's necks, which would bring about a healing of the psychological, emotional, and spiritual pains and struggles that have put a stranglehold on humanity's soul. We MUST heal the broken Human Condition if we are to usher in a better world and civilization. And in order to do that, the System MUST be changed to one that encapsulates all the virtues of Love.

Thanks again, ***** , for stopping by, it was nice talking to you.
I Love You, My Friend & Brother!

PS: I'm not saying that I completely "agree" with "all" of Bernie's policies and ideas, I'm just saying that I fully trust his motives and attempts to help others. He truly cares about people. And he does see the inequality caused by a corrupt system. But he just needs to peel that last layer off (just as all other people need to do as well) to see the main culprit of all the inequality, poverty, homelessness, crime, war, sickness & disease, lack of education, climate change, and ALL The Other Issues that government hasn't been able to solve, Bernie needs to realize that it's the "Privately-Owned" Money Creation Banking System at the CORE of ALL the Problems on Earth. It's not a question of "where are we gonna get the money for that?" because money is just a Human Construct, it's not real, the rulebook of money creation can be changed for the betterment of ALL of Humanity, instead, it's a question of WHEN will People wake up to finally see the Truth behind it all and then stand up and change the socioeconomic systems that are holding us back from reaching our full potential. Once enough people wake up and see the Truth, then we must band together and vote the changes into Law, first by voting the ones of us who see that Truth, into all levels of government, then they can change the Laws, ushering in a new paradigm for Human Civil-ization, a social system built on a foundation of Love and Integrity.
