

On September 3, 2025, Realtor.com will launch a new agent search experience to help people learn about and connect with agents in their area. The experience will include information about both Realtors® and agents who are not members of the National Association of Realtors®.

While any agent can still create a profile on Realtor.com for free, profiles for our paying customers will also appear in this integrated search experience. Profiles will be ranked on relevancy and robustness so that both free and paid profiles show up in search results.

This new experience allows consumers to filter their search to return only Realtors®, if they choose; it replaces the stand-alone “Find a Realtor®” search for agents who are members of the National Association of Realtors®. The profiles of Realtors® who have previously claimed their profile as part of the Find a Realtor® search will display on the new agent search experience.

Realtor.com will continue to deliver consumer inquiries on Realtor® profiles directly to that NAR member, free of charge, if the consumer clicks directly on the “Connect” button in that member’s profile, whether it was discovered in the general agent search or filtered Realtor® search.

As part of the new experience, a lead form to Realtor.com’s referral network will also appear on all free profiles (see example below), whether it was discovered in the general agent search or filtered Realtor® search.

ACTION ITEM: If you currently link directly to the Realtor.com Find a Realtor® search on your association/MLS website or other digital assets and would like to direct people from those links to the filtered search that returns only Realtors®, please update that link - currently www.realtor.com/realestateagents - to <https://www.realtor.com/realestateagents#nar>.

NOTE: That link will go live in the new experience on September 3; it will drive traffic to a space on the landing page that reinforces the value of a Realtor® and allows users to click a “Find a Realtor®” button, which then filters any search to return only Realtor® profiles. (See example below)

Realtor.com will maintain a search experience for teams and brokers under the current “Find a Realtor®” branding in the near term, until these profiles can be incorporated into the integrated search experience.

Realtor.com worked closely with the National Association of Realtors® to ensure that this new agent search experience helps reinforce the value of and differentiate Realtors® vs. agents who are not NAR members, and helps expand opportunities for consumers to connect with agents on a platform - Realtor.com - that is industry-friendly and promotes Realtor® brand awareness.
