

The Spa

This lavish marble covered bathing pools. From water to animal blood, Some cool, some warm, some hot. Automated servants of clockwork and brass care for any need, from massage to health food to ambrosia to washing.

The Pools are gilded with gold in patterns of growing ivy. It's Public, and it's well funded by the government. Enjoy!

~~Lontash Magistrate Residence/Office~~

The granite building is ornate and expensive. The source of such wealth for the village is never talked of, even in private, as if the villagers are keeping some dark secret. In the foyer, a pair of marble stair cases curl up to a landing on the second floor opposite the entrance. The vaulted ceiling ending in a windowed dome gives a person the sense of culture and importance. The floor black onyx tile reflects the light like a mirror.

The first floor is filled with rooms for administrative and dignitary functions. The second floor is residence for Lontash's family and thralls.

The Illusionatarium

It is a massive domed room. The stone interior dome is whitewashed and the floor is onyx. A glass pedestal sits in the middle of the room. A facet is in the top center. A person can pay to select a pre-programmed interactive illusion residing in a two hundred karat precious gem. Have an adventure. Have a romance. Have fun.

Gnome Works

The massive granite building is often thought to be an old temple re-purposed by the gnomes. Lemongrass theorizes that the buildings purpose was a museum, now stripped bare. Inside is a massive workshop with gnome sized permanent scaffolding surrounding the perimeter. The center full of tools massive and small waiting for creative hands. And resources waiting for imagination.