

This is a Performance Study based on the data we took on 5th December 2022 in the Faraday Lab. It shows time-over-threshold (the time width of each muon signal) plotted in a histogram. As you can see, the three channels have very similar plots and overlap closely. This is just like the time-over-threshold plots we saw in the Lab but here they are all plotted together.

Performance Study

