However, sometimes it is difficult for students to understand how to use nouns while making a sentence, especially those just starting to learn English grammar. We will further learn the nouns used in the English language for you to understand the concept better.

Here are some examples of simple nouns:

Nouns for People/person – Rohan, Akash, Riya, Christopher, Jennifer, etc.

Nouns for Places – Mumbai, Delhi, Paris, Guwahati, etc.

Nouns for Things – Book, Chair, Desk, Laptop, Watermelon, etc.

What are the different types of Nouns?

There are four different types of nouns, they are – common nouns, proper nouns, abstract nouns, and collective nouns.

Common Nouns – A common noun is a word or a name used for naming a person, a place, an object, or any living thing like a tree or an animal. A common noun, as the name suggests, is used to describe anything that we commonly see around us, like a book, a chair, a table, a fruit, a person standing near us, or any other object or animal. All such common items that we see or have around are identified with a name, and that name is called a common noun.

How to use Common nouns?

Common nouns are typically used for describing a class of objects or a concept, such as fish, which can be used for a group of fish in a tank. The word fish here is a common noun, as it is used for naming the group of water animals that we can see in the tank, i.e., the animals that cannot live without water. So, anything common or usual can be classified as a common noun.

Examples:

- a) The book is lying on the table.
- b) The cat climbed the wall.
- c) We need water to survive.
- d) The table was made of black marble.
- e) The bottle had coconut water in it.

Proper Nouns – A proper noun is used for describing a particular person or a place, and the names begin with a capital letter, such as – Daniel, Elizabeth, Chennai, Russia, India. Therefore, proper nouns are the specific names of a place or a person, unlike common nouns, which are used for names of a group of people or animals or trees, or any object which is common and does not need specification and are usually singular nouns.

How to use proper nouns?

Proper nouns are the names given to a specific person, place, or thing that is unique and begin with a capital letter no matter where the word is placed in the sentence. The distinction between a common noun and a proper noun might be difficult for some; therefore, here are some ways to show how a proper noun should be used.

Examples:

- a) Katrina is a beautiful girl.
- b) Mumbai is a bustling city.
- c) I can see Saturn through this telescope.
- d) India is a multi-cultural and unique country.
- e) Delhi is a congested place.

Abstract Nouns – An abstract noun is used to name something you cannot detect with your physical sense. It is basically an idea or a feeling that exists in our mind and needs a name or a description. Unlike the other nouns, which are often called concrete nouns, an abstract noun is not something that can be felt or seen.

How to use an abstract noun?

Several abstract nouns are formed from adjectives or verbs, like emotions and feelings. It is not always easy for children to understand the difference between abstract nouns and concrete nouns. Some people use the word laughter as it is officially included in the list of abstract nouns but is left out by some as it is something that can be heard and physically felt. Let us read the sentences below to better understand the use of abstract nouns.

Examples:

- a) The dog was brave enough to fight off the snake.

The collective words are the names of a group of people, a group of animals, or any object. Every team or group comprises several individuals, but still, the entire group is described or addressed as a single entity. Collective nouns can be used to describe anything that is made up of several individual persons or things and need to be given a name collectively.

How to use collective nouns?

As nouns are names that are used for naming individual people, a specific object, or a living being, collective nouns are in a class all their own that form a team or a group. Let us see some sentences that will show what collective nouns are and how we should use them while framing a sentence.
