History

Early Life

Goldenrod was born an only kitten to Horsetail and Sawdust. For a majority of his life, he didn't know his father, and he always felt out of place no matter what he did. He tried to do whatever Horsetail did, mimicking her and following her when she allowed it. He doted on her, wanting to be just like her and always happy to spend time with her.

The life Goldie had with his mother was one of simplicity, staying in one place and not leaving the meadow they resided in. However there was one day when Horsetail came to him, looking tired and sad, like she had news she couldn't tell Goldenrod because he was too young.

She took him away from their quaint little home, telling him that he was going to meet his father. But.. she couldn't come with him. Why not? Goldenrod didn't understand, didn't she love him? He didn't understand why he was being dropped with his father, Sawdust, without being truly introduced.

A New life

The move threw Goldenrod into another pitfall, once again not feeling like anything was right. He defaulted to copying what his father did, tagging along and following his lead. By that time he was slowly beginning to realise who he was, figuring out that he wanted to be different genders instead of just one, going by xey/xem.

While xey were tagging along with Sawdust, xey learned about xeir father's past with the Knights and how he came to rejoin the Knights with Warlord's group. Xey thought Fang was cool! And Warlord... kinda. Xey wanted to be cool just like these great leaders, just.. Maybe not as scarred as Warlord is.

Goldenrod is still unsure with what xey want to do, but xey're trying to follow Sawdust's lead first. Whatever Sawdust does, xey wanna be just like him.
