

(there are some questionable scalings for D but i'll adress those at the end)

Name: Shizue D. Tempest

Strenght: In base he's multi galaxy because he ate a galaxy sized black hole that was about to explode and survived both the explosion and the pull of it, With the devil deal he should reach uni+ from cracking the second armament's armor which was made of crystallized collapsed universes, While going insane in the sinner state he shook the 7 higher hells which contain a 6D hell each putting him at 7D/baseline complex, In the god seal form he should be baseline hyper from creating armor stronger then the unbound leviathan's astral form which is stated to move in 11 dimensions (godzilla ultima mixed with the all devouring narwhal from genshin), With god fusion he should be outer+8 because he could fight the 13th king's IT form which transcended the null's first 7 narative layers, As the - king he should be reaching power comparable to Zenith who scales to the cosmology, And with the writer's favor and Duality blessing he should have access to the master code which allows him to essentially act as a author avatar which upscales above zenith who is the third strongest character in the verse who is around high outer+9 to extraversal/boundless.

Speed: In base he averages ftl+ at 65x sol, with the sinner state he outspeed the 3rd hell's sins of gluttony and sin of greed who were stated to be capable of devouring and obtaining everything in hell (which is an infinite space) so infinite, With god seal he outspeed causality through sheer speed and sucker punched the 13th king before he gained omnipresence, As the - king he is negativity itself. He is everything and nothing. He exists everywhere at any time yet nowhere and never so omnipresence. The only place he can't exist in is a place of pure positivity (Not emotional, like actual positivity)

Hax: Most important are chain manipulation (from which the majority of he's hax come from), rage boosts, logic negation/infringement through willpower or nihilism and sun wu kong level immortality from the "Bound by one's own will" seal and the spiraling which is essentially just a diffrent version of spiral power from gurren laggan.

Combining logic negation and chain manipulation he gained inhale reality, time, space ,mater, causality(from which came chaos, order and law manipulation), vector, ether, math, blood, biology, history,etc manipulation. Essentially, as long as you can relate it in any way to chains or lines he will have it. He linked himself to what he'd define existence as (Bound by one's own will like i said earlier, it works by esssentially linking him to everything and because of the logic infingement it allows him to remake himself even if the only existing thing is a being with non existence or paradoxical existence) so He. Will. Survive. EVERYTHING Alongside that, being a god which in my world is a conceptual entity, he is bound to everything that has a negative (paradoxically making him also be bound to everything) and because he is a "constant" (a seperate state of godhood) he is absolute which leads to a lot of hax not working on him because to change him would be to change the fibers that make the universe and the code that makes the master code. And to the goddess of duality which keeps him from reviving himself in a completely seperate space time and point in time, there's also the high godly regen but that's kept for the - king state and for when he gets duality's favor, normally it's high-mid goes to mid-high in he's stronger forms.

Iq: Above average in general, gifted in understanding new concepts and figuring out abstract ideas, extraordinary genius in combat with the help of battlelust and time manipulation

Personality: While fighting, Think Kenpachi's fight lust, Simon's willpower and determination, Kaneki's psychotic crash outs and Aizen level fake out bs. In general, a bit of a nihilist with he's life, not caring about the consequences of he's actions living how he wanted and not caring how it affected people he didn't know or the world. Despite that he's a joy to be around, a bit clueless but always meaning well, chaotic good, loyal to he's own detriment and able to inspire millions of people by he's act alone.

General backstory A kid who didn't like reality and absorbed himself into fantastical worlds and disassociated from reality and by pure bad luck (or luck if you ask him) he got reincarnated into a fantastical world and began living he's life like he wanted. At he's core there's two sides, the unbreakable will fueled by he's desire to be someone worth remembering and the nihilism that keeps him grounded in reality.

Now for the details, The - king and duality's favor are not usable willy nilly, the - king is attainable only through very specific means that he can't replicate by himself or him losing he's drive to push forward which essentially never happens and duality's favor requires him being in an unwinnable situation where the writer (canonical writer gods that were glitched above everything) considers it needed to intervene and boost him. He's reality warping could affect the entire afterlife which is between 9 and 12D, with causality he can affect the 13th king and the high potents which are all somewhere above the leviathan, and like i said the - king is not usable at will so that part can be ignored.

He's reckless and doesn't even know how half he's powers work, he just wills stuff and it works out, he will never fight all out from the beginning unless it's a threat to the universe or he's family, he's very prone to tunnel vision when getting into a fight, getting outsmarted almost every time time fight a cosmic being but usually winning because no normal creature can survive getting impaled across all of space time and getting stronger from it (in case it's not obvious i really like gurren laggan).