What should D11 keep, change, or build next?

Agenda

Topic	Agenda	Notes
GEM recap	Look back at Gifted Education Monitoring in March: what happened across D11, what families and schools participated in, what worked well, and anything we would want to do differently next year.
What we heard this year	Review the recurring themes that came up in GTAC, including communication, consistency, ALPs, programming, family understanding, and student support.
Keep / Change / Build	Ask members: What should we keep? What needs to change? What should we build or improve next?
Priorities for next year	As a group, narrow the conversation to the few areas that feel most important.
What happens with the feedback?	Explain which items GT staff can act on, what may need school-level work, and what would require a longer district process.
Thank you and next steps	Thank members, invite returning participants, and share how they can stay connected.

We will start with a short recap of Gifted Education Monitoring in March, then use the rest of the meeting to look back at what GTAC heard this year and identify priorities to carry into next year.

Today we will talk about:

- GEM recap - Look back at Gifted Education Month in March, what happened across D11, what worked well, and what we may want to do differently next year.
- What we heard this year - Review the recurring themes that came up in GTAC, including communication, consistency, ALPs, programming, family understanding, and student support.
- Keep / Change / Build - Ask members: What should we keep? What needs to change? What should we build or improve next?
- Priorities for next year - As a group, narrow the conversation to the few areas that feel most important.
- What happens with the feedback? - Explain which items GT staff can act on, what may need school-level work, and what would require a longer district process.
- Thank you and next steps - Thank members, invite returning participants, and share how they can stay connected.
